OUR STORY

50-50

was born in the park from icy pre-season laps to late-night rail jams under parking-lot lights.

We're not here for podiums or powder days.

We're here for style, progression, and that split-second moment when the board meets steel.

Our gear is built by riders, for riders with a raw, street-inspired edge that hits as hard in the city as it does on snow.

We exist for the ones who know that every session is a chance to push limits, break lines, and redefine what's possible on a board.

OUR MISSION

OUR STORY

LINE

OUR VISION

OUR STORY

To redefine freestyle snowboard culture by blending park performance with streetwear identity and elevating rider-driven progression.

CORIN WALKER'S

Always pushing past what's possible.

PROGRESSION

Style is everything — make it yours.

INDIVIDUALITY

No rules. No boundaries. Just ride.

REBELLION

Rider-built, rider-driven.

COMMUNITY

The park is your canvas.

5050 TONE & VOICE GUIDELINES

VOICE

BOLD. RAW. UNAPOLOGETIC.

We speak like riders — not corporations. 5050's voice comes straight from the park: confident, grounded, and real. Every line should sound like it was said mid-session or after landing something clean.

tone

ENERGETIC. REBELLIOUS. CONFIDENT.

Our tone hits fast and loud. Use slang, short sentences, and words that move. Keep it casual, but intentional. We don't oversell — we feel.

WRITING STYLE

- USE: punchy phrases, rhythm, and slang that feels authentic.
- AVOID: corporate buzzwords, filler, or polished marketing language.
- KEEP: a sense of motion — every word should feel like it's moving forward.

EXAMPLES

(DO)

“Push past perfect.”
“Steel over snow.”
“Born in the park.”
“Fall. Ride. Repeat.”

(DON'T)

~~“Premium winter solutions.”
“Our innovative snowboarding products...”
“Engineered for maximum comfort.”~~

COLOUR PALETTE

PRIMARY COLOR	PRIMARY COLOR	ACCENT COLOR

DARK BLACK HEX: #000000 RGB: 0, 0, 0 CMYK: 75, 68, 67, 90 INKTYPE: Process	SOFT WHITE HEX: #FFFFFF RGB: 255, 255, 255 CMYK: 0, 0, 0, 0 INKTYPE: Process	HOT PINK HEX: #FF69B4 RGB: 255, 105, 180 CMYK: 0, 73, 0, 0 INKTYPE: Process

USAGE GUIDELINES:
Backgrounds: Always use black or white. If black is the background, logo and text should be in white (and vice versa).
Pink (Accent): Used only to highlight key elements such as headings, dashes, dividers, call-to-action buttons, or emphasis in text. It should never overpower the black/white core identity.

COLOUR PALETTE DON'TS

Don't use unapproved colors. Only black, white, and hot pink (#FF69B4) are part of the brand identity.

Don't use pink as a background color. Pink should stay an accent, not a dominant background.

Don't use pink for body text. It reduces readability — reserve it for highlights, headings, or emphasis only.

Don't use gradients or fades of black, white, or pink. Stick to flat, solid colors to maintain the bold, edgy identity.

Don't use off-black, greys, or off-whites unless specifically approved — always use pure black (#000000) and pure white (#FFFFFF).

Don't use pink against a red or other warm-toned background. It clashes and reduces contrast.

Don't overuse pink. Too much pink weakens its impact as an accent and makes the identity feel unbalanced.

Don't use the wrong text/background combinations. Example: black text on a dark background or white text on a light background. Always ensure high contrast.

Primary Typeface

Kefa III

Use: Body copy and regular text.
Style: Clean and versatile, ensuring legibility in both digital and print formats.
Weights: Regular.
Applications: Paragraphs and long-form content.
Subheadings and secondary text when a softer tone is needed.
Recommended Sizes: Print body text: 10–12 pt. Digital body text: 14–16 px.
Line Spacing: 120–140% of the font size for optimal readability.

Secondary Typeface - Kefa III Bold

Kefa III - Bold

Use: Emphasis and highlights.
Style: Strong and bold, giving contrast to Kefa III.
Weights: Bold only.
Applications: Pull quotes. Emphasis in body text (limited use). Calls to action or key phrases in marketing materials.

Display Typeface

Use: Titles and headings.
Style: Distinct and impactful, establishing brand personality.
Applications: Main headings (H1, H2). Section titles in documents. Headline text in posters, banners, or ads.
Recommended Sizes: Print headings: 18–36 pt depending on hierarchy. Digital headings: 24–48 px depending on screen size.

TYPOGRAPHY GUIDELINES

Hierarchy and Usage Guidelines

Headings (H1, H2, H3): Use Another Tag for clear emphasis and visual impact. This font should convey strength and individuality, aligning with the bold, adventurous personality of the snowboard brand.

Body Text: Always set in Kefa III Regular for readability and cohesion across all brand materials.

Emphasis: Use Keffa Bold only to highlight important words or phrases. Avoid overuse to maintain clarity and ensure emphasis stands out.

Consistency: Do not substitute with system fonts unless technical limitations prevent otherwise.

Colour Integration

Typography should always maintain strong visibility against the brand's primary colour palette.

Use white or black text depending on background contrast.

Accent text (such as callouts or highlights) may use the brand's hot pink to draw attention, but only for short headings or key phrases.

Avoid using pink for large text blocks to preserve readability.

Maintain a minimum contrast ratio of 4.5:1 between text and background colours to ensure accessibility and legibility in all applications.

Accessibility Considerations

Maintain a minimum contrast ratio of 4.5:1 between text and background.

Avoid using bold and italics together to reduce visual strain.

Ensure headings and body text have clear visual separation through size, weight, or colour.

Test typography on light and dark backgrounds to ensure consistent readability across digital and print media.

DESIGN AND LAYOUT

Overall Composition

The design layout reflects the energy and motion of snowboarding while maintaining a clean, structured balance. Visuals should evoke freedom, adventure, and individuality—core values of the brand. Layouts must combine bold imagery with open negative space to create a dynamic yet breathable visual experience.

Alignment and Spacing

Headings and body text should align left for readability and flow.

Use consistent spacing between sections—minimum 24px for digital and 0.25in for print.

Maintain visual hierarchy through clear distinctions in font size, weight, and spacing.

Imagery Placement

Photography should be bold, high contrast, and capture real motion or texture (e.g., snow, boards, mountains).

Avoid cluttering pages with too many visuals—use one strong focal image per composition.

Keep text overlays minimal; ensure legibility with color contrast and drop shadows when necessary.

Use of Color and Backgrounds

Primary backgrounds: white (#FFFFFF) or black (#000000).

Accent sections or highlight panels may use hot pink (#FF69B4) for emphasis or callouts.

Background colors should never overpower text or reduce readability.

Consistency Across Platforms

All layouts, whether web, print, or social, should maintain the same grid alignment, typography hierarchy, and brand color proportions. Elements like buttons, banners, and promotional materials must follow the same visual system to reinforce brand recognition.

Do's

Maintain consistent margins and spacing across all pages.

Use bold imagery and large-scale typography for visual impact.

Keep layouts simple and uncluttered to let visuals stand out.

Dont's

~~Do not stretch or distort images.~~

~~Avoid inconsistent alignment or overlapping text and visuals.~~

CULTURAL SENSITIVITY AND ADAPTATION

Avoid Cultural Bias

All imagery, symbols, and color choices are carefully reviewed to ensure they carry no unintended negative connotations in different cultural contexts.

Localized Imagery

When designing global campaigns, visuals should reflect regional customs, attire, and environments to promote authenticity and connection.

Inclusive Storytelling

Marketing materials should feature diverse individuals representing a variety of ethnicities, ages, genders, and backgrounds to foster global relatability.

LANGUAGE AND COMMUNICATION

Clear and Neutral Tone

Messaging avoids slang, idioms, or region-specific humor that may not translate effectively.

Translation-friendly Copy

Text is concise and adaptable for multilingual translation, maintaining brand tone while ensuring clarity.

Respectful Representation

Gender-neutral language is used wherever possible, and cultural references are verified for sensitivity and relevance.

Summary

By prioritizing accessibility and inclusivity, our brand ensures that every individual regardless of background, ability, or culture feels acknowledged and respected. This approach not only strengthens global recognition but also builds trust and emotional connection with all audiences.
